Section 1 – Getting to Know the TED

Overview of the TED

What is a TED?

The TED is an employee in a district or charter school who is designated as the primary contact for transition and employment services for students with disabilities in special education programs.

This employee must be able to provide information and resources about effective transition planning and employment services to school staff, students, parents, and agency providers. Local education agencies, or LEAs, can change this designation, as needed, to make sure that the employee serving in this role has the appropriate knowledge and skills necessary for providing information about effective transition services.

Is every school district required to have a TED?

Yes. Each school district, including shared services arrangements (SSAs), is required to designate at least one employee to serve as the district's designee on transition and employment services for students served by special education programs.

Are charter schools required to have a TED?

Yes. A charter school is required to have an employee designated as the TED. It is important to have someone available to answer questions about transition for students served by special education.

TEC 12.104(2)(F) provides that open-enrollment charter schools are subject to Chapter 29 special education program requirements. Therefore, the requirement in sec. 29.011 that a district designate an employee to serve as the school district's designee on transition and employment services for students enrolled in a special education program applies to charter schools.

Are there any agencies that a TED is required to collaborate with?

Yes. In addition to ensuring communication and collaboration with students and their parents, the TED must also help identify contacts at the following agencies: Health and Human Services Commission \(HHSC\), Texas Workforce Commission \(TWC\), Department of State Health Services \(DSHS\), and the Department of Family and Protective Services \(DFPS\). The TED must ensure communication between local school staff and regional or local staff at these agencies.

Choosing the TED

Who determines the TED for an LEA?

The LEA will determine which employee will serve in the role of the TED. A collaborative discussion between the superintendent, special education director, and other leadership may be necessary to determine which employee would be best suited to serve as the TED.

The LEA should develop a process for ensuring this information is updated on TEA's AskTED Directory.

Considerations for designating an employee as the TED

Is the employee able to lead training and communicate effectively about the following transition-related services?

Transition Planning and Transition Assessment

18-21 Services

Work-Based Learning and Career Experiences

Self-Determination

Does the employee feel comfortable answering questions and facilitating discussions with staff, students, and parents about the following topics?

Agency Support and Collaboration

Supported Decision-Making Agreements

Community Connections and Outreach

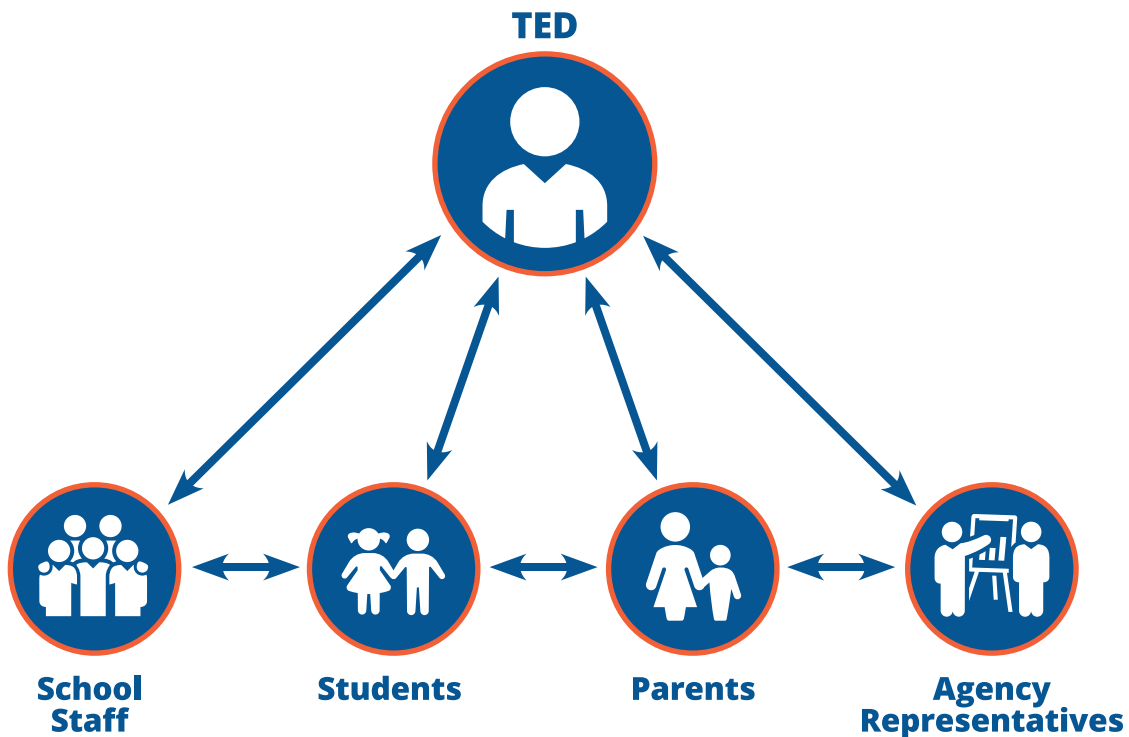

Postsecondary Education and Training

If the employee that you designate as the TED needs additional training in one or more areas listed above, please contact the Transition Specialist at your Education Service Center \(ESC\) for information about available training or visit the Texas Transition website for a list of free, online training.

Choosing the TED

Communication and Collaboration are Key

The employee who serves as the TED must have effective communication skills and should continually work to develop partnerships among school staff, students, parents, and local and regional representatives of state agencies.

Facilitating Transition Connections

Transition is an ongoing process that should continually support the student in making successful connections to the community to further his or her opportunity for education, training, employment, and independent living. Facilitating transition connections will require regular communication with community partners and a plan for sharing information about them through venues like transition fairs, including virtual or face-to-face options. Besides sharing information with students and parents, school staff also need regular opportunities to learn more about transition connections in the community and with state and local agencies.

Locating the TED in AskTED

Where can I find my TED contact information and verify that it is correct?

The TED contact information (including email and phone number) should be easy to find and publicly available. You should check the TED information listed in the AskTED directory from TEA.

Please note: TED information is no longer available on the Legal Framework website. This information has moved to the AskTED directory.

To locate a TED, click here for the AskTED Directory and then follow the steps below:

- Click Search By and then choose District
- Type in the name of the district
- Choose Information Type = Personnel
- Click on the box for Include Other District Roles
- Scroll through Select Roles and click on Transition & Employment Designee
- Click Search
- The next screen will provide the contact information for the TED in the district or charter school you entered

Section 2 – TED Requirements

TED Requirements

The TED is required by state statute to provide information to parents, students, and school staff about these transition services and agencies:

Transition Services

- Student Involvement
- Parent Involvement
- Adult Student Support
- Postsecondary Education
- Functional Vocational Evaluation
- Employment
- Age-Appropriate Instructional Environments
- Independent Living

TED Online Trainings

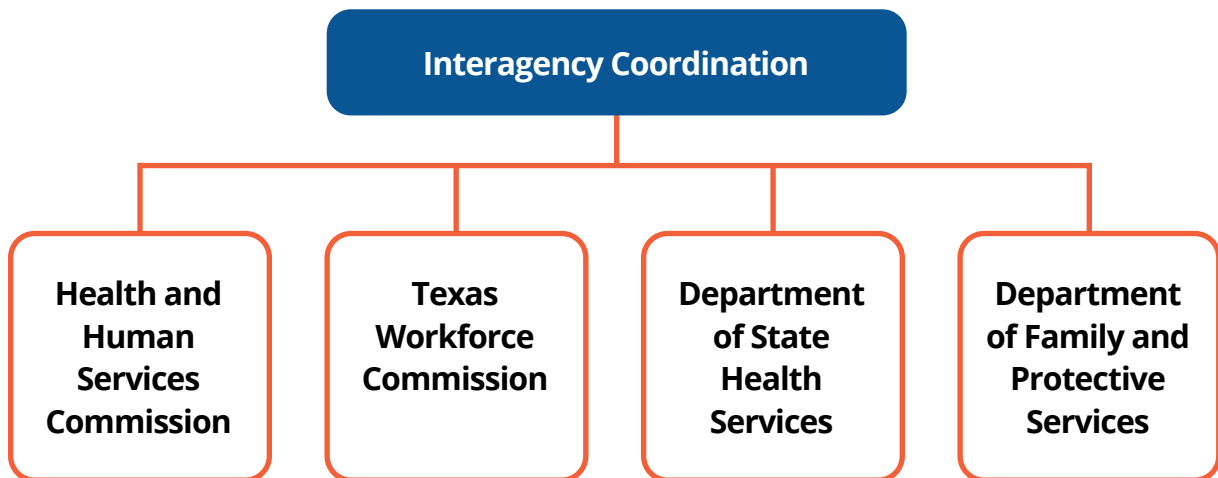

The TED is also required to complete minimum training requirements. To meet these requirements, a TED must complete the online training module:

The purpose of this training is to give information and tools needed to fulfill the statutory requirements of the TED role for a school district. TEDs will complete this 2-hour self-paced course and an additional 6 hours of professional development in a transition priority area of their choice in accordance to the professional development rubric in the course.

TED Requirements

Whether you are new to the TED role or have years of experience, it is helpful to continue to add tools to your toolkit. For each of the TED requirements below, you will find an overview, considerations for each topic, links for more information, and tools that will help you address the questions listed for consideration. To skip directly to a specific topic, click on the boxes below.

Student Involvement

Overview

- Transition planning must begin no later than age 14, but can begin earlier, as appropriate.
- The student must be invited to all ARD committee meetings where the purpose of the meeting is to discuss transition.
- The student must have an opportunity to be appropriately involved in their plan for transition to adult life.
- Conversations must include age-appropriate transition assessments to help the student identify interests, preferences, needs, and strengths as they relate to the student's expectations for their postsecondary goals.

Considerations

- How is the student involved in developing their transition plan:
 - Before the ARD?
 - During the ARD?
 - After the ARD?
- How can school staff help students better understand the role of transition assessments?
- How can school staff involve the student in developing steps to achieve their postsecondary goals?
- How can the student lead (some or all portions of) their ARD committee meeting?
- How can school staff engage the student in development of their Individualized Education Program (IEP)?

Parent Involvement

Overview

- When a student is younger than 18, the student's parent(s) and other people invited by the parent or school must have an opportunity to be appropriately involved.
- The student's parent(s) can be involved in transition planning by attending the ARD committee meeting and giving input on decisions about the future, such as assisting in the selection of an endorsement, appropriate classes, career-related training, self-determination resources, and opportunities for community participation.

Considerations

- How do parents provide input on their child's transition plan:
 - Before the ARD?
 - During the ARD?
 - After the ARD?
- How does the school provide opportunities for parents to learn more about the transition process?
- Are opportunities available for parents to learn about supporting their child's self-determination?
- Do parents know who to contact with questions about their child's transition plan?

Adult Student Support

Overview

- If a student is at least 18, people invited by the student or school to attend the ARD committee meeting should have an opportunity to be appropriately involved.
- When a student reaches 18, the parent moves from primary decision-maker to a support system for the adult student, although the parent will continue to receive notice of ARD committee meetings.
- The student may request parental involvement in making decisions about education or the student may request a supporter through a supported decision-making agreement.

Considerations

- When does a student learn about the transfer of rights process at the age of majority?
- How is information about supported decision-making communicated to the student?
- How are students involved in the development of their summary of performance?
- Be sure to provide necessary accommodations and modifications when informing students about their rights and responsibilities.

Postsecondary Education

Overview

- Postsecondary education options are the educational opportunities that the student may choose to pursue after completing high school.
- The ARD committee must consider appropriate postsecondary education options for the student that should also include preparation for postsecondary-level coursework.
- Postsecondary goals for education and/or training should reflect the student's expectations for life after high school.
- The coordinated set of activities should document activities to support the student in achieving success with postsecondary-level coursework.

Considerations

- What transition assessments have been conducted to determine the student's preferences and interests related to postsecondary education, and what were the results?
- What transition assessments have been conducted to determine the student's strengths and needs related to postsecondary education and postsecondary-level coursework?
- How can a school address college readiness and skills for postsecondary-level coursework in the ARD committee meeting?

Functional Vocational Evaluation

Overview

- The ARD committee must consider an appropriate functional vocational evaluation (FVE) when more information is needed to help determine the student's postsecondary training and/or postsecondary employment goals.
- An FVE may be needed to help the ARD committee develop a comprehensive transition plan. This evaluation process should include information from multiple sources and include recommendations related to career interests, aptitudes, and skills.
- Student and parent input should be included in an FVE.

Considerations

- An FVE may be considered when:
 - A student has difficulty communicating their career interests.
 - A student has completed training at multiple job sites, but there is not a clear direction for next steps.
 - A transition assessment has not provided enough information to develop a comprehensive transition plan.
- How will the school gather information from the student and parent?
- What existing information can be used?
- What new information is needed?
- What do you need to know?

Employment

Overview

- Appropriate employment goals and objectives are the measurable steps that enable a student to achieve postsecondary employment.
- Discussing career education options may help the student identify a career choice and the essential skills necessary for employment.
- Employment goals should address skills for acquiring a job and maintaining competitive employment (full or part-time, at or above minimum wage), supported employment, or self-employment.
- Employment skills should focus on successful completion of school-based career exploration and work experiences.

- How can Career and Technical Education (CTE) courses support the student with employability skills?
- What opportunities does the school provide to students with disabilities for career exploration?
- What options does the school provide to students with disabilities for paid or unpaid job training?
- Does the school have training for special education school staff to learn more about work-based learning?

Back to Requirements

Age-Appropriate Instructional Environments

Overview

- When a student reaches 18, age-appropriate instructional environments should continue to be available.
- These environments include community settings or those that prepare the student for postsecondary education, training, competitive integrated employment, or independent living in coordination with the student's postsecondary goals.
- The student should receive instruction individualized for each environment, and instruction may include vocational training, community service, and volunteer opportunities.

Considerations

- Has the student completed all credit requirements and state assessments necessary for graduation?
- Courses taken with modified curriculum may impact a student's graduation option.
- Has the student obtained full-time employment and mastered sufficient self-help skills to enable the student to maintain the employment without direct and ongoing support from the school?
- Has the student mastered specific employability skills, including general skills necessary to obtain or retain employment?
- Does the student have access to services for employment or education options outside of public school?

Independent Living

Overview

- The ARD committee should consider, at least annually, whether the student has needs related to independent living that should be addressed through specially designed instruction.
- Independent living goals and objectives are steps to enable the student to achieve postsecondary independent living skills (where appropriate), daily living skills, and community living skills. These goals may address the expected skills and desired independence level that a student should demonstrate after the completion of high school.

Considerations

- What areas of independent living have been addressed through transition assessments?
- Are there any independent living skills the student will need to learn in order to achieve his or her postsecondary goals in the areas of education, training, or employment? For example, will the student need to maintain employment and master a daily living routine independently?
- What functional needs have been identified through the Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance (PLAAFP) or the annual IEP goals?

Referral to State Agency Services

Overview

- The ARD committee should consider appropriate circumstances for facilitating a referral to government agency services or public benefits. This includes a referral to place the student on a waiting list for public benefits available to the student, such as the waiver program established under the Social Security Act.
- The ARD committee determines if there is a need for additional outside assistance by an agency for services based on the individual needs of the student.
- With the written and signed consent of the parent or adult student, any agency responsible for providing transition services may be invited to the ARD.

Considerations

- What support(s) is the student receiving from state agencies?
- What additional assistance does the student currently need from agencies that support students with disabilities?
- What continued supports will the student need as an adult after high school?
- What new supports will the student need as an adult after high school?
- Has the student been referred or placed on the Medicaid Waiver Interest List?

Self-Determination and Supported Decision-Making Agreements

Overview

- The ARD committee should consider the use and availability of supplementary aids, services, curricula, and other opportunities to assist the student in developing decision-making skills, and supports and services to foster the student's independence and self-determination, including a supported decision-making agreement.
- Schools must provide and document information about guardianship and the alternatives to guardianship when a student or parent asks for information about guardianship or the alternatives.

Considerations

- How can decision-making skills be assessed to determine competencies for each student?
- Where are skills for self-determination taught within the school day?
- How are self-determination skills documented within the IEP?
- Where do school staff learn about guardianship and the alternatives to guardianship, including supported decision-making agreements?

Interagency Coordination

Communication and Collaboration Are Essential

The TED should continually work to develop partnerships among local and regional representatives of state agencies. There are four specific agencies identified by state statute that TEDs should work with to gather information to share with students, parents, and school staff. In this section, we are going to take a look at each of these state agencies and provide an overview of the agency and key services offered, and highlight resources that are beneficial to add to your own TED guidelines.

An overview of each agency is provided in Section 3. To skip directly to a specific agency, click on the boxes above.

Section 4 – TED Roles and Responsibilities

TED Checklist Overview

Check Your Understanding of the TED Role and Responsibilities

Most TEDs have responsibilities in addition to their role as a TED. Now that you have had an opportunity to review the TED requirements, we recommend completing the following checklist to determine how the TED requirements fit within the other transition-related responsibilities that a TED may have within the LEA. Remember, not all transition-related requirements and activities within the LEA must be completed by the TED. The purpose of this checklist is to help you identify which responsibilities must be completed by the TED so that you can identify other staff in your LEA that may be able to help carry out transition-related activities.

The checklist is organized into 8 main categories that identify transition-related responsibilities. Each transition-related responsibility that is also a TED requirement will be identified with bold text.

Once the checklist is completed, you can identify the TED's responsibilities and where you need to build capacity at the LEA.

Plan for Building Capacity

Review the Checklist

Review your responses to all of the items on the checklist. Determine if there were any items that you did not mark that were identified as a TED responsibility. If so, you should add those items to the priority list below. If not, review additional items on the list that were not marked that could build your capacity in transition to support your role as the TED.

Create an Action Plan

Based on your responses to the checklist, determine at least 3 priorities that you can commit to learning more about in order to build your capacity as a TED. Then, determine who can support you with the priorities that you have selected. Finally, set at least 3 personal goals that will help you address the priorities you listed. Consider sharing the action plan with the transition specialist at your ESC so they can provide additional resources and support to help you achieve your goals!
